

K. Fisher & Son's Great Sacrifice Removal Sale

Was certainly stupendous beyond conception all day Saturday. The crowds were so large that the large store could hardly accommodate the army of buyers who were there from all over the entire surrounding country.

The trade was steady and voluminous from early morning until closing time at night, and the result, when summed up, astounded both members of the firm. Later in the evening scores of customers whom we had been unable to wait on earlier in the day, and who vainly sought elsewhere for what they wished, returned to FISHER'S and kept our store busy until closing time. The significance of these facts must be patent to everyone. They demonstrate beyond a doubt that FISHER'S is the source of supply—the actual heart of Richmond's clothes industry—and proves that the people know that when the FISHER STORE advertises anything, it is the positive truth.

Forty-three years of highest principles in the operation of this establishment have won for us the perfect confidence of the people. A FISHER ADVERTISEMENT is a guaranteed statement of the actual facts, and we at all times will take back, exchange or refund the money on any purchase, no matter what the cause may be.

We are now distributing the Greatest Clothing Values on earth into the homes of the people at less than cost to land the merchandise in Richmond.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ASSOCIATION

Educators Interested in Schools for Girls Will Confer at Hollins.

A LONG STEP FORWARD

Matters of Vital Importance to These Institutions Will Be Discussed.

The annual meeting of the Virginia Association of Colleges and Schools for Girls will be held at Hollins Institute Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, June 15 and 16. The session promises to be one of great interest and significance, as matters of importance will be discussed touching the specific and vital questions of administration, standards, co-ordination, as well as the more general fields of pedagogic activity. The heads and teachers of all the schools in Virginia, exclusively for girls, are invited to attend this meeting, reaching Hollins on Monday or Tuesday, where they will be the guests of Hollins Institute during the meeting of the association. The first regular meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, June 15, and there will be several meetings on Wednesday. The programs will be published on Tuesday next.

The history of the association is an interesting one, as the first meeting for organization was held in the Women's Club of Richmond, and as the association was the conception and initiative of the movement belongs to Miss Orie Latham Hatcher, Ph. D., formerly of Richmond, now professor in Bryn Mawr College, who was ably assisted in her efforts by A. H. Tuttle, of the University of Virginia, president of the Virginia Association of Collegiate Alumnae, in whose home the first meeting of the educational committee was held.

The first regular meeting of the association was held two years ago in Randolph-Macon Woman's College, where a general survey of the field of the education of girls and young women in Virginia convinced all present that there was need for definite and energetic action in order to place our Virginia schools on the sound basis of a uniform standard of scholarship and teaching. However, nothing further than a preliminary survey was attempted at that time, and a committee of fifteen was authorized to report at the next meeting.

The second meeting of the executive committee was held in February of last year at the Farmville Normal School, where the committee of fifteen was appointed and where a definite program for the June meeting was arranged.

Sweet Briar College was the host of the association at the second regular meeting in June of last year. This meeting marked a definite advance in the plans outlined, as the committee of fifteen laid before the association a specific plan for the co-ordination of standards, which was discussed fully in all its phases on the floor of the association, and which was finally adopted, after some changes, as the official recommendation of the body. This report and recommendation has been printed and sent to all the schools of Virginia.

Of intense interest.

This third meeting, convening at Hollins Institute on June 15, is a time of intense interest to all concerned in the movement, for the reason that here for the first time reports from the field will be received as to the practical working of the plan suggested and recommended. Many matters of interest in the general work of the schools will be discussed, but the paramount question is the practical adoption of the recommendation by each school for girls in Virginia. The whole matter at issue is the adoption of a "ten-point" college entrance requirement as a present standard, with "sixty hours" of college work for the A. B. degree. While this has been given official recognition as the suggested standard of the association, it can be put into effect only by the voluntary action of each school, and every person attending the meeting will have opportunity to discuss the plan.

Hollins is a beautiful place, and those who partake of the hospitality of the institution, on the invitation of President Cooke, will have an opportunity of combining a delightful summer outing for a few days with really valuable work in the direction of higher and more uniform work in the Virginia schools. All principals and teachers expecting to attend, as well as press representatives or other persons interested, should send information of such intention immediately to M. E. Cooke or to Miss Cooke, at Hollins, Va.

The report of Miss Mary Somerville Gammon, of Stuart Hall, the secretary-treasurer of the association, will follow, and the session will be concluded by the president's annual address, by Arthur Kyio Davis, of Southern Female College.

Discussion of Standards.

The morning session of Wednesday, June 16, will be devoted to the co-ordination of standards. This session will be presided over by Dr. W. W. Smith, chancellor of Randolph-Macon System, and the discussion will be opened by Miss Orie Latham Hatcher, of Bryn Mawr, of the advisory committee, who prepared the printed report at the request of the last meeting. Dr. Mary K. Benedict, president of Sweet Briar College, will discuss the matter from the view of the executive committee, and Dr. James Nelson, president of Richmond Woman's College, will speak for the committee of fifteen. Miss Welmer, president of Mary Baldwin Institute, and Miss Duval, principal of Stuart Hall, will discuss the practical workings and difficulties in co-ordinating the academic and artistic sides of educational work, and Dr. Moody Campbell, of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, and Dr. J. M. McBryde, of Sweet Briar, will discuss the matter from the viewpoint of German and English respectively.

The afternoon meeting, if desired, will be devoted to the further discussion of this matter, as the plan is to have every institution given an opportunity to be heard, either personally on the floor of the association. This session is designed more especially to touch on the ten-point requirement for college entrance work.

subject of English, after which the officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and the place and time of the next meeting will be selected.

In addition to the work of an educational value, the social character of these meetings is doing much good in bringing together the men and women engaged in this calling, so that teachers and heads of schools for girls are gaining acquaintance with each other and appreciation of the methods and ideals of the various schools. Such interchange of thought and such meeting on the common ground of upbuilding and service must conduce to mutual respect and esteem, and must result in a higher standard of scholarship and comity.

Moreover, it is a matter of congratulation that the men and women interested in the education of girls have come together to work out their own salvation. The time has passed when the education of girls and young women could be dismissed with a shrug or a jest or a witticism, even by a Lewis Carroll. It is a matter that is now treated seriously by all, for the reason that these schools are grappling with their own problems in a spirit of earnest resolve, realizing the insistent demands of the present day.

and the importance of the higher standards. With all respect and affection for the educational work of Virginia in the past, they are firm in their resolve that the schools shall have the benefit of the broader light of the larger humanism of the present day. And the Hollins meeting represents the third great stride in this direction taken by the Virginia Association of Colleges and Schools for Girls in Virginia.

COUNCIL MEETINGS

New Bridge Committee May Out of Existence This Week.

All of this week's meetings for the Council and its committees are called for the first two days of the week. Tomorrow the meeting of the Council will be held at 8 o'clock, and the Committee on Forms of Government and the Committee on Consolidation at the same hour. The New Bridge Committee will meet in conjunction with the Council on Consolidation, and it is probable that the work of the New Bridge Committee will be turned over to the Committee on Consolidation and that the former will go out of existence.
